

what is the truth about
RACISM

Introduction

Racism is a topic frequently pushed by the mainstream media. The media often claims the United States is systemically racist and that its white citizens are inherently privileged. Is this true? If so, what is the evidence for this? Do those pushing the claims have a religious, ideological, or political incentive?

We will look for the truth “between the lines” through social media and some news sources, keeping in mind that much of the mainstream media is known to coordinate and push partisan political agendas.

What is the definition of racism?

The Merriam-Webster dictionary definition of “racism” is:

“A belief that race is the primary determinant of human traits and capacities and that racial differences produce an inherent superiority of a particular race.”

The screenshot shows the Merriam-Webster Online Dictionary interface. At the top left is the Merriam-Webster logo. Below it is a navigation menu with links: Home, Visit Our Sites, Premium Services, Downloads, Word of the Day, Word Games, Open Dictionary, Spelling Bee Hive, Word for the Wise, Online Store, Help, and About Us. The main header area includes 'Also Visit' links for Unabridged Dictionary, Learner's Dictionary, Word Central for Kids, and Collegiate Dic. Below this is the 'Merriam-Webster OnLine Search' section with radio buttons for Dictionary (selected), Thesaurus, Spanish/English, and Medical, followed by a search input field. The page title is 'Merriam-Webster's Online Dictionary'. The word 'racism' is displayed in a large, bold font. Below it, the text reads 'One entry found.' followed by 'racism'. The main entry is 'rac-ism' with a speaker icon. The pronunciation is given as '\rā-,si-zəm also -,shi-\' and the function is 'noun'. The date is listed as '1933'. Two definitions are provided: '1 : a belief that race is the primary determinant of human traits and capacities and that racial differences produce an inherent superiority of a particular race' and '2 : racial prejudice or discrimination'. The word 'rac-ist' is also listed with a speaker icon, pronunciation '\-sist also -shist\' and the function 'noun or adjective'.

According to archive.org this has been the definition since at least 2007, however, the company has since expanded its definition to add ideological arguments such as the existence of “systemic” racial oppression.

Treating races differently with one or more races as either inferior or superior to another is the definition of racism. If this is what racism is and if society claims to be against racism, then why are so many in the media treating some races as superior and some as inferior? Because they are treating some of a certain skin color as being inferior, and because this is the definition of racism, does that then make them “racist?” This was supposed to be the very thing they claim to be against, was it not?

Do these articles show any difference in treatment or discrimination towards people of a particular skin color? Does this match the definition of racial discrimination? If the word 'white' was changed to 'black', would it make it any more offensive? If all races are equal and deserving of dignity and respect then why would one skin color be "ok" to discriminate against and another "not ok"?

Is it right for poor people to be punished and marginalized for their skin color by the city of Oakland? Is it their fault their skin color is lighter than the city of Oakland requires?

More than 150 years ago, republicans fought democrats in a civil war and won. White conservatives literally died for black liberty. The union army of conservatives included 186,097 black patriots who united to fight against the tyranny of the Democrat oppression. Democrats resisted all attempts for black liberty, for example with the Civil Rights Act of 1866 where the democrat president rejected the bill. After losing the war, democrats began to feel embarrassed about their actions for supporting slavery and the KKK and created a lie that one day both parties randomly “switched” sides. Despite the farfetched and illogical narrative, through repeated propaganda in the education system some began to believe it. Through the clever deception they pushed the blame off of themselves and onto their opposing party, but their tendency to control, strip liberty, and discriminate against people by labeling and “grouping” continues today. Democrats Joe Biden and Barack Obama praised the KKK member Robert Byrd in a eulogy on July 2, 2010 and these videos are found online.

Only 1.6% of US citizens owned slaves in 1860, when slavery was at its PEAK.

So you can stop basing your hate for the entire white race for the actions of a mere 1.6%.

“Blacks were not enslaved because they were black but because they were available. Slavery has existed in the world for thousands of years. Whites enslaved other whites in Europe for centuries before the first black was brought to the Western hemisphere. Asians enslaved Europeans. Asians enslaved other Asians. Africans enslaved other Africans, and indeed even today in North Africa, blacks continue to enslave blacks.”

Both killed and injured people with their car, but for different reasons. One appeared to be in self defense and another was intentional. Yet, the white person who tried to flee an attacking mob was sentenced to life in prison while the black man who intentionally tried to kill people was let off the hook. Is this a double standard? Could political ideology about their race have influenced the justice system?

Anti-racism glossary

As people around the world demand justice and racial equality for Black people, some unfamiliar and occasionally misunderstood terms have moved into the mainstream. To promote a better understanding, here's a brief glossary:

Anti-racism is the practice of actively opposing racism in all aspects of life. This includes politics, economics, culture, and society. Learn more

Anti-racist: A person who actively practices anti-racism.

Ally: A person who makes an intentional decision to understand, empathize, and act in support of others. Allyship is not an identity. It's a lifelong journey of commitment and practice. BIPOC stands for Black, Indigenous, and people of color. The term is intended to acknowledge that not all people of color (POC) face the same levels of injustice. By listing out Black and Indigenous, the term emphasizes that people from these specific communities face different, and often more severe, forms of injustice and oppression. Some members of racial and ethnic communities oppose the use of this term as it

Anti-racism encompasses a range of ideas and political actions which are meant to counter racial prejudice, systemic racism, and the oppression of specific racial groups. Anti-racism is usually structured around conscious efforts and deliberate actions which are intended to provide equal opportunities for all people on both an individual and a systemic level. As a philosophy, it can be engaged in by the acknowledgment of personal privileges, confronting acts as well as systems of racial Microsoft Bing's "anti-racism" page claims to be against racism, yet it appears to exclude all races as victims except black people. Most citizens of the United States already agree that races are equal in value. So much so that a civil war in 1865 was fought over it and those who defended slavery lost. No one is alive from that time and all wealthy slave owners of that time are dead. So is continuing to heavily push "anti-racism" just a straw man argument and attempt to earn invisible virtue signaling points? Is it possible that some "anti-racism" propaganda is actually having an opposite effect of creating racism by shaming one race and elevating another?

Do the black ultra-rich deserve “reparations” and does society expect homeless white veterans to help pay rich black celebrities for something someone else did a long time ago? What about mixed-race families: is one parent automatically “racist” and the other automatically “oppressed”? If people are half white and half black like Barack Obama, are they considered by society as white “racists” or does their color percentage qualify them to be “victims” of oppression too?

Fun fact: The average African-American is 24% white.

'All lives matter'

What does it mean to say “all lives matter”?

When the Black Lives Matter motto arose, some people interpreted the phrase as confrontational and divisive. They took it to exclude other races. The phrase “all lives matter” sprang up in response, ostensibly to argue all lives are equal because we are all human beings.

However, Black Lives Matter was not intended to mean that other lives do not matter. In a world where Black people are stigmatised, marginalised, and discriminated against, Black Lives Matter simply recognises Black lives matter, too.

Not a straightforward phrase

Responding to “Black Lives Matter” with “all lives matter” derails the specific conversation about racism against Black people. The phrase is seen to dismiss, ignore, or deny these problems — it shuts down this important discussion.

Read more: The backlash against Black Lives Matter is just more evidence of injustice

US President Donald Trump, Vice President Mike Pence, and other US conservatives like Rudy Giuliani, have used the phrase to criticise the Black Lives Matter movement.

Through its use, “all lives matter” has also become associated with white supremacy, far-right nationalism and racism.

A racist dog whistle

This article claims that believing all lives matter is bad and even “racist.” How is believing that all lives have equal value a controversial topic in 2022? Would some people be happier by hearing that some lives matter and some don’t? Or that some lives matter “more”? If so, then that again is the definition of racism.

Thomas Sowell
@TheThomasSowell

If you believe in equal rights, then what do “women’s rights,” “gay rights,” etc., mean? Either they are redundant or they are violations of the principle of equal rights for all.

A white person carries a Black Lives Matter flag, while a black man protests against him with a Confederate flag.

A racist dog whistle

Black Lives Matter is intended to promote the peaceful protest of racism against Black people, not only in the US, but worldwide. It also calls for immediate action against systemic and social racism.

People around the world have marched in support of Black Lives Matter. Martin Meissner AP/AAP

When used by Black people, “Black Lives Matter” is a declaration that Black lives do indeed matter. It is a call for protection and recognition.

When said by allies — supportive people outside of the racial group — “Black Lives Matter” acknowledges that Black lives do indeed matter, and says we stand in solidarity with members of Black and indigenous communities both locally, and globally.

So, “all lives matter” can be understood as a racist dog whistle — a direct push-back against the Black Lives Matter movement. It is

When white people commit mass murder the US mainstream media are very deliberate to include the race in every headline, but if a black person commits the murders it is usually either undisclosed or buried deeper in the article. This tragic disaster of a black man who intentionally ran over and killed people during a parade was reduced to being called a “parade crash.” Was the media was racially biased?

Leading Practices Unpacking privilege

Privilege

(noun) a special benefit or advantage that may be earned or unearned.

Note: A person may or may not be aware that they are benefiting from privilege

Social Privilege: Special, unearned advantage or entitlement, used to one's own benefit or to the detriment of others. These groups can be advantaged based on social class, age, disability, ethnic or racial category, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, and religion.

White Privilege: Societal privileges that benefit white people beyond what is commonly experienced by people of colour under the same social, political and economic circumstances.

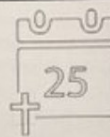

What privilege looks like

If you're confident that the police exist to protect you, you have white privilege.

If while growing up, college was an expectation of you, not a dream, you have class privilege.

If you can expect time off from work to celebrate your religious holidays, you have Christian privilege.

If you can use public bathrooms without stares, fear or anxiety, you have cisgender privilege.

If you don't have to worry about how to get into a store, you have able-bodied privilege.

If you don't have to explain that your spouse is of the same gender, you have heterosexual privilege.

If you don't have to think about it, it's a privilege.

CHECK YOUR PRIVILEGE:

- White
- Male
- Class
- Christian
- Cisgender
- Able-Bodied
- Heterosexual

Racism = Racial Prejudice + Power

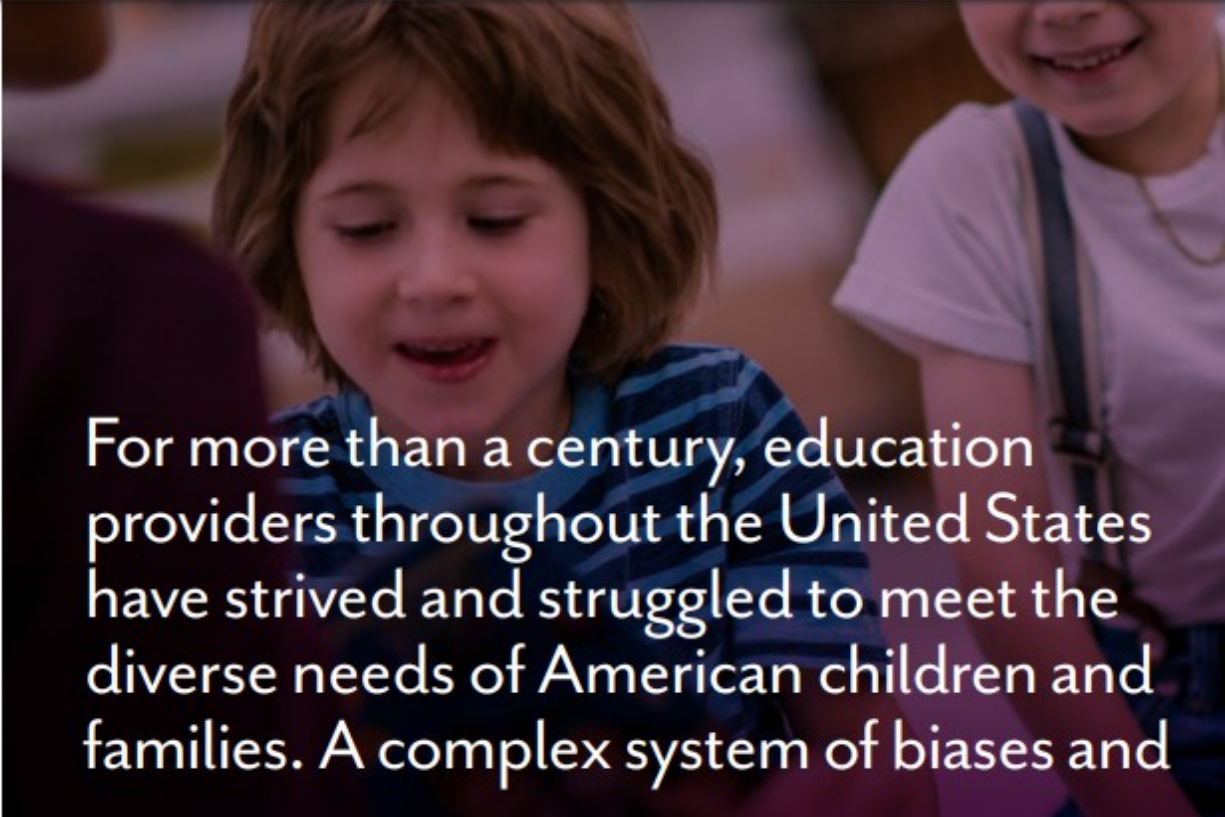

Racism

Prejudice, discrimination, or antagonism directed against a person or people because of their membership of a particular racial or ethnic group, typically one that is a minority or marginalized.

Racial Prejudice: a set of discriminatory or derogatory attitudes based on assumptions coming from perceptions about race/skin colour.

Power: the authority granted through social structures and conventions as well as the access to means of communications and resources. This can include authority, privilege, influence, popularity, aggression/threat, etc.

As reported by online media this document appears to be a "critical race theory" CRT ideological teaching document which claims that "White", "Male", "Christian", and "Heterosexual" is a "privilege." It appears to discriminate towards people of those characteristics as if they are "bad," yet the document ironically claims to be against discrimination and prejudice. Is any of this true or is it ideological propaganda?

For more than a century, education providers throughout the United States have strived and struggled to meet the diverse needs of American children and families. A complex system of biases and

Joe Biden checking to see if you know how to use the internet

Joe Biden and his administration has referred to people of color as being disadvantaged and that they don't have the same access to internet or for voting or other privileges. Is this true?

-Leftists

"I have a dream that my four children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin, but by the content of their character."

Martin Luther King, Jr.

Thanks to some laws, corporate "diversity" officers in HR departments often look to hire people only of a particular skin color to meet a racial "quota," rather than hiring based on qualifications. Why is such a disproportionate focus on the color of people's skin and not the content of their character or other qualifications?

Lawlessness, The Murder of Our Children and The Soul ...

Of the 1,003 people killed by police last year, 405 were white, 250 were black, 163 were Hispanic, and 185 were recorded as other/unknown ethnicity. Only 55 of those 1,003 individuals were unarmed — 25 white suspects, 14 black suspects, 11 Hispanic suspects, and five others.

In another category that often gets a lot of attention from activist groups screaming about racial injustice, 29 of those killed by police in 2019 possessed a toy gun — 14 of them were white, 6 were black, 4 were Hispanic, and 5 were of unknown ethnicity.

To be clear, whether they were armed, or unarmed, or in possession of a toy that looked like a real weapon, in every single category, blacks were not killed more often than whites. Given the numbers — 14 unarmed blacks killed out of 10 million arrests, which equates to a rate of 0.00014 percent — this is NOT evidence of systemic racism.

The real systemic and deadly reality is that black men and women are being slaughtered in cities and communities of color around the country in numbers that can only compare to war zones in Iraq or Syria — and every single one of those cities has been run by Democrats, in some cases for as long as 40 years.

Police shoot more white people than any other race in the US.
